A major contributor to the rise in popularity of the online form of bingo is the increasing number of countries that are banning smoking in public places.

Research indicates that a majority of people who play bingo also smoke cigarettes, and online gaming means that players are able to play and smoke from within their homes.

Some just prefer to play bingo from the comfort of their own home, or are uncomfortable spending time within a large group of people.

Online chat rooms give players the freedom to interact as much or as little as they choose to.
